ELEVEN DIVORCE SUITS

THAT NUMBER FILED IN THE COUN-TY COURTS IN ONE DAY.

All Kinds of Allegations Enumerated in the Complaints-Other Cases in the Courts.

Of the thirteen new suits filed in the county courts yesterday eleven were for divorce, one was a damage suit growing out of domestic trouble of a husband and wife and another a suit on a mechanic's lien.

In the divorce suits filed there were many stories of family troubles, cruelty and misconduct alleged against the defendants. Some of the stories told in the suits were pathetic and others humorous because of their incongruity and strangeness. One of them, as related by Mamie Alford in her suit against Leland Alford, told of the husband's failure to provide and of giving her only $3 for her support in the four years of their married life. Mrs. Alford also accused her husband of cruelty and inhuman treatment and says that for his drunkenness and vicious habits he has been arrested and sent to the workhouse. Garnet E. McDaniel, in her suit against Harry McDaniel, enumerates a number of faults of her husband and as a climax to the allegation says that he brutally struck her in the mouth while it was sore. Charles Miller is the defendant of a suit filed by his wife Kate. She asks a divorce on the ground of cruelty and avers that her husband treated her meanly and on one occasion threw a joint of stovepipe at her. At other times he threw such articles as cordwood and bits of furniture and other things lying handy when he lost his tem-

Mrs. Eva Hauser asks $5,000 damages in a suit filed against Mary J. Zoller. She avers that the Zoller woman has won the love of her husband and by causing her sleepless nights and in other ways worrying her because of her husband she has been damaged in the sum named.

George W. Stewart is sued by his wife, Susan F. Stewart, who charges him with cruelty and abandonment. Ernest M. Mc-Agee accuses his wife of immorality and other offenses against their domestic tranquillity in a suit for divorce. George Peery is accused by his wife Daisy of he would cut her throat. To show that he intended to carry out his threat one day recently he stropped a razor to get it in shape. She left him Nov. 1 and he sent some of her clothes to her but kept the rest. The sending of the clothes was taken by her to mean that she was not to come back, and consequently she has applied for a divorce. In the complaint Mrs. Peery says that there are no children in the family with the exception of one who was adopted by Peery. The little girl was legally adopted by Peery, and she avers that she did not sign the adoption papers, and that if any are ever presented bearing her signature she charges her husband with the forgery of it.

Ruby Sawyer says her husband, John M Sawyer, is troublesome and flies in a rage when things do not suit him, and while mad has assaulted her and made their married life unbearable. Mrs. Sawyer says her husband has money and earns a salary as a commission broker sufficiently large to allow an award of alimony to her. She asks | lant's brief (8.) the court to restore to her the use of her maiden name, Ruby Duncan, and alimony. Other divorce cases were those of George Egan against his wife Alice, for abandonment; Emma F. Cook against John E., alleging that he is quarrelsome and their family relations are not peaceful, and Clara J. Lee against Frank Lee, a nonresident of the State, who abandoned her some time

INDEPENDENT COAL DEALERS. A Number of Them Will Give Information to the Grand Jury.

The grand jury, in its investigations of alleged violations of the conspiracy law by the members of the Indianapolis Coal Exchange, will try to secure the testimony of many of the independent coal dealers of the city who are not members of the socalled "Coal Trust." The investigation of the purposes of the Coal Exchange and its manner of doing business will occupy the attention of the jury until all of the charges have been looked into. The questions to be asked the coal men subpoenaed yesterday will deal with the overtures made to them to go into the combination and what promises were made them if they would become members. If any threats or suggestions that their business would be hurt by their refusal to join were made the ly, of Richmond, represented the Grand jury, through Deputy Prosecutor Benedict, Lodge officers, while R. A. Brown, of this will try to find out what they were. The coal men who were yesterday subpoenaed by the jury and whom Sheriff | the injunction. The decision of the Grand Saulcy has been instructed to notify as Tribunal was reserved and will be given soon as possible are Aikman & Schwert, to-day. M. Boyd, Robert C. Brenton, B. D. Brooks,

Schill, Alexander Shake, Frank Shellhouse, Frank Sherer, J. F. Smock, A. G. Stephenson, F. Stout & Son, Frederick Swartz, the W. G. Wasson Company, Charles A. Webb, F. M. White, Fred Williams, John H. Williams, James A. Wilson, W. M. Wilson, the H. M. Wing Company and Andrew Wright. If there is any evidence obtained by the jury that suggests an unlawful combination in the coal trade, indictments will be returned against the men interested in it. The lovestigation is not intended as a warning to the coal men, but means that some persons will be placed on trial in the Criminal Court if enough of the charges against them can be substantiated to justify the return of indictments with the report of the jury.

It is the impression of some of the independent coal dealers that members of the result of the grand jury action and some of them are said to have withdrawn from the association. It is also said that the prices of soft coal will be materially leshigh prices now charged are not the result of a combination of coal merchants, but a natural condition in the market, owing to the scarcity of coal.

Copenhaver Will Go North. Ora Copenhaver, the convicted murderer of his wife, who is now under death sentence, will be taken to Michigan City, the place appointed for his execution, the latter part of the week. Sheriff Saulcy has notified the family of Copenhaver that they may call at the jail and say good-bye to The date of the execution is Feb. 12. and the family and friends of Copenhaver expect favorable action by the Supreme Court on the application for a new trial, recently filed, before that time.

Two Wills Probated.

The will of Charles H. Wischmeyer was probated yesterday. Henry C. Wischmeyer is named as executor of the instrument and is the chief beneficiary. Margaret A. Kelley's will was also filed with the probate commissioner. The husband, Joseph M. Kelley, was appointed the executor of the will and administrator of

THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL NOW WOR-RYING ITS COMPETITORS.

Oil as Fuel for Locomotives Is Unsatisfactory-B. & O. Changing Compound Engines to Simple.

The Illinois Central is preparing to inaugurate a six hours' service between St. Louis and Chicago, a saving of two hours on the present running time. It is understood that one of the trunk lines will run to connect with this fast train, and the Coal Exchange are becoming afraid of the | Vandalia has announced that it will put on a fast train between New York and St. Louis to more than meet any competition in this direction, which would mean that sened soon to impress the jury that the the Wabash and Big Four would shorten the time of their trains.

Oil for Locomotive Fuel.

An official of the Lackawanna says that company has tried burning oil in the fire boxes in a few of its locomotives, and, though cheap enough, it is not found sufficiently useful to warrant its use as a general thing. Oil as a fuel gives satisfaction only in cases of low speed, up to forty miles an hour, and it will not make steam enough to give power for drawing more than a few cars. On heavy grades oil will not do, as steam is made so slowly that locomotives will be continually stalled. After a few experiments with light trains the company found the shortcomings of oil, and in spite of the fact that these experiments were conducted by experts has decided to stick to coal. The Lackawanna has profited touch through its advertising of the use of anthracite coal on its passenger locomotives.

Receiver Malott's Good Work. Six years ago to-day the Vandalia was placed in the care of Volney T. Malott as receiver. At that time the road was without credit and unable to pay its debts, and the property had run down physically to such an extent that large expenditures were imperatively necessary to keep it in increase the capital stock of the company condition for safe and economic operation. by authorizing an issue of additional com-Under the custody of the receiver the mon shares, so that the entire capital that its debts have been paid, a great part of the road has been rebuilt, its traffic developed, and large additions to trackage, locomotive and car equipment have been made. On all hands it is conceded that the receivership has been a most beneficial thing for the property, its creditors and

With the increase in operating expenses of the railroads dividends have decreased. The Pennsylvania and the New New Haven & Hartford at one time paid regular dividends of 10 per cent. a year, and the New York Central and the Illinois Central for years regular dividends of 8 per cent. annually. Notwithstanding the much-vaunted prosperity which all these roads are now enjoying, none of them is able or considers it advisable to pay as high a dividend rate as formerly.

Big Four Earnings. The Big Four lines proper earned in the first week of October $391,193.60, an increase

The Peoria & Eastern earned $51,282.31, an increase of $2,875.44 over last year. In both cases the earnings of the corresponding week last year were the largest of any previous weeks in November.

Compound Engines Failures.

As rapidly as practicable the Baltimore & Ohio is changing its compound engines, of which type it has a great many, into simple engines. The compound system, the railway people say, is all right for a stationary engine, but as a locomotive it is a
